Help Defeat the Five-County Bay Area Transit Sales Tax This November

The November ballot will include a major new sales tax measure to provide bail-out funding for Bay Area transit agencies. If you believe taxpayers deserve greater transit accountability and efficiency reforms before approving new taxes, you can help.

I'm organizing a volunteer team to share factual information and encourage informed discussion on Facebook community groups throughout the five counties affected by the measure.

What volunteers will do

Each volunteer will:

- Help identify and monitor local Facebook community groups.
- Post and share fact-based information about the transit tax.
- Respond respectfully to questions and reinforce key messages during the campaign.
- Spend as much or as little time as their schedule allows during the approximately ten weeks leading up to Election Day.

Our goal is to build a network covering all 69 cities included in the measure. We've already identified several groups and are looking for volunteers to help expand that effort.

Why this matters

Many voters are concerned about the growing Bay Area tax burden and want stronger fiscal accountability. A recent statewide public opinion poll found that a majority of Californians prefer lower taxes and fewer government services. By ensuring voters see balanced information about this tax measure, we can help them make an informed decision at the ballot box.

No special experience is required—just a willingness to participate, communicate respectfully, and help spread accurate information.

If you'd like to join the effort or simply learn more before deciding, please contact me.

Together, we can help voters hear another side of the debate before they cast their ballots.
